

In recent years, Mills County and the Loess Hills area have seen considerable residential growth due to its proximity to the Omaha/Council Bluffs metropolitan area. Vineyards, which were once a primary agricultural business, have taken rebirth, putting Mills County on the map in western Iowa Wine Country.

Mills County offers a nice variety of creative shopping, tasty dining and coffee houses, challenging golfing, abundant farmers' markets, and a host of unique celebrations throughout the year.

The National Scenic Byway comes through Mills county from north to south, truly offering the "Best of Both Worlds".
